

The Journey: Creative Pathways

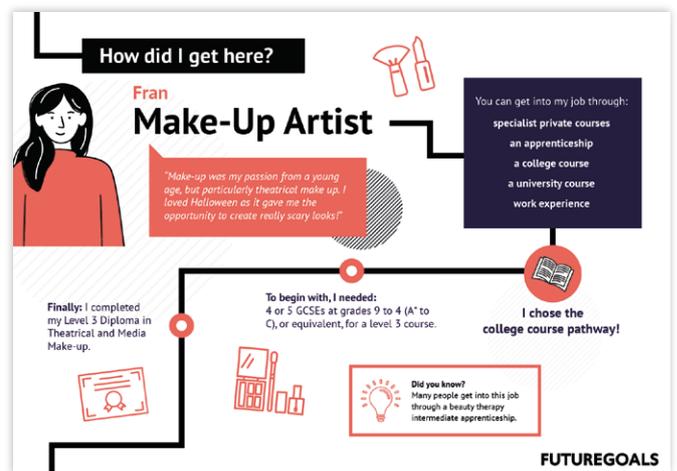

Guidance Notes

Guidance Notes

This activity showcases some of the key roles and pathways within the Creative Sector and gives students a chance to find out how they progress to a successful career within the industry.

What's my creative role?

To begin with, students are introduced to a series of characters who currently work within the Creative Sector. Each character has a dedicated 'How did I get here?' page that includes information on their likes and interests while at school and also the educational pathway that they followed in order to achieve their career. These character slides can be used within discussions or be printed as part of a more detailed lesson into the sector. Each slide also includes a link to more information regarding the different pathway options.

Your challenge

Students now need to think about the various skills and requirements attached to each of the job roles previously discussed. This is a really useful activity as it encourages students to think about their own skills and if a career within the Creative Sector is right for them – they might even spot a job requirement that's right up their street!

This challenge can either be carried out on the PowerPoint or physically filled in as a printable resource.

Students should begin by quickly studying the skills and job requirements (there are a total of 12 skills and 12 requirements). Next, they need to think about each character and their creative career – they have access to the job overview again on each slide. For each character, students need to select 2 skills and 2 job requirements to complete the challenge.

If using the resource as a PowerPoint presentation, students can simply drag or copy/paste their chosen answer into the relevant box.

Your Challenge

See if you can correctly match up the skills and job requirements for each person, you'll need to think carefully about what each job might require and also which skills are necessary to work within that area.
